April 4, 1855. I have sweet thoughts of thee, dear one,
That I would fain reveal;
When in the crowd and when alone,
Upon my breast they sten',
They charm like music heard at even
Upon the caim blue sea;
And sweeter than a dream of heaven
Are those dear thoughts to me.

I have sweet dreams of thee, dear one,
"When my heart is "sore oppressed,"
They bid those blighting cares begone
That rob me of my rest;
Like some bright dream of years gone past
Ere aught of pain I knew,
They want to bright these care!

They on my path a brightness cast That's onzzling to the view.

I have a hope of thee dear one—
A gentle hope of thee,
And thou hen-eforth—yea, thou alone,
My guiding star shall be.
Thou art the star whose cheering ray
Can make my pathway bright—
Can cheer me on life's rugged way,
And make its hurthers light

And make its burthens light I have an offering, dear one, An humble gift I know— Not gems that glitter in the sun, Can I on thee bestow, But I offer thee a treasure

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with the purpose designed. sive trial of its virtues has conclusively snown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely regetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the compliants which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languer and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilieus Househe. may mention layer compaint, in its verifications of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious floadache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colie, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly mecessful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too fas, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a

CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION. This remedy has won for itself such netwicty from its cures of every variety of pulmonary discuss, that it is entirely unnecessary to recomit the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the causes of its curs, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its hind is too appearant to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not easy in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of Colds, Coughe, Healsmanses, See; and for Children it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained. This remedy has won for itself such naturies that can be obtained.
